Best papers will be submitted for publication to the ARIMA journal ARIMA <https://arima.episciences.org/> (indexed by MathSciNet, DBLP), according to the usual procedure of this journal.

Each poster must specify: the scientific and applicative context, the problem and the goals, the importance and/or the originality of the research work, the used approach, the related work, the preliminary results, a discussion about the obtained results and their perspectives. The poster template is available on the conference website. Posters should be sent to info@cri-info.cm.

All submissions should be anonymous: do not put on papers the names of authors and their institutions (these will be present only in the final version).

The 2021 edition of the Conférence de Recherche en Informatique (CRI'2021) will be an opportunity to honor the memory of Prof. Claude TANGHA and Dr. Jean Pierre NZALI, for their immense contribution to the development of computer science in Cameroon as well as their remarkable professional and personal qualities. Accordingly, sessions will be dedicated to testimonies, scientific presentations, and feedback on their work. These presentations will be made by guest speakers, chosen among their collaborators, colleagues and former students who work in Cameroon and around the world.
